

In the Lecture titled Veterinary Spinal Diseases: Painful vs. Non-Painful, Dr Yates will explore various spinal diseases encountered in veterinary medicine, with a focus on differentiating between painful and non-painful presentations. Emphasis will be placed on diagnostic imaging techniques used to localize and characterize lesions, as well as treatment strategies tailored to specific conditions. Attendees will gain insights into clinical decision-making based on symptomatology, imaging findings, and therapeutic outcomes.