D. General Agenda

1. Accreditation Status of NTCC Vet Tech Program

Motion made by Dr. Cataldo-Rogers to deny approval of the veterinary technical program as a Board-approved program for the alternate pathway for licensure, seconded by Dr. Findley, and passed unanimously by voice vote.

2. Does an Out-of-State DVM Need Licensure to Proctor in a Surgical Setting

Out of state veterinarian presented a query to the board inquiring whether Louisiana licensure was required in the following context: the out of state veterinarian, having instructed an attending veterinarian concerning a particular surgical procedure, would be present during the surgery yet not physically participate in performing the procedure. His role would be limited to reinforcement of the prior instruction to the attending veterinarian who would physically be performing the technique. After discussion, the board determined that such limited participation would not constitute the practice of veterinary medicine so as to require licensure in Louisiana. The attending veterinarian would retain all responsibility in conducting the procedure within the regulatory standard of care involved.

3. Unlicensed Veterinarians Practicing Under Licensed Supervision

A series of questions were submitted to the board by a licensed veterinarian concerning specific duties in the context of equine reproduction and which may be properly delegated, under supervision of a licensed veterinarian who has established the VCPR with the client/patient, to unlicensed veterinarians. The procedures inquired about were ultrasound guided palpations, artificial insemination, embryo transfer and uterine lavages. The board, following extensive discussion, made the following determinations and observations: in the context of what can be delegated to an individual who is not licensed to practice veterinary medicine in the state, the proposed delegation must first be to an employee of the veterinarian who has established the VCPR, not an independent contractor or other quasi-employment relationship with the attending veterinarian. The degree of expertise needed to competently perform the procedure is the responsibility of the delegating veterinarian, who must be on premises when the procedure is done. A person who has a degree in veterinary medicine but is not licensed by the board has the standing under board rule of a lay assistant. Only a licensed veterinarian can perform surgery, make a prognosis or diagnosis, and prescribe (these duties cannot be delegated notwithstanding the degree of supervision exercised by the attending veterinarian). If an activity does not constitute “the practice of veterinary medicine” as defined by the Louisiana Veterinary Practice Act, the board does not have regulatory jurisdiction over the subject matter or individual involved. In the context of the specific query, the following determinations were made:

1. Ultrasound guided palpations: These are diagnostic measures designed to determine the status of the uterus and the pregnancy of a mare. As such, only a Louisiana licensed veterinarian can perform these.
2. Artificial Insemination (equines): Although this does constitute “the practice of veterinary medicine”, this may be delegated to a qualified lay assistant as it does not constitute any of the duties described above which cannot be delegated (e.g. surgery, diagnosis). The procedure must be by a qualified lay assistant under the direct supervision of a licensed veterinarian who has established the VCPR with the client and employs the lay assistant.
3. Flushes: may be assigned to a qualified lay assistant under direct supervision of a licensed veterinarian who has established the VCPR with the client and employs the lay assistant.
4. Embryo Transfer: These may also be delegated to a qualified lay assistant under the direct supervision of a licensed veterinarian who has established the VCPR with the client and employs the assistant.
5. Uterine Lavages: These may be assigned to a qualified lay assistant under direct supervision of a licensed veterinarian who has established the VCPR with the client and employs the assistant.

The lab work associated with intracytoplasmic sperm injection (ICSI) and in-vitro fertilization does not constitute “the practice of veterinary medicine” in the context of this query involving equine reproductive services and under the specific circumstances noted in your supplemental query. The collection of oocytes and the transfer of the embryo developed in the lab cannot be delegated. Other “lab work” outside the context of your query may well constitute “the practice of veterinary medicine” and is not addressed by the board’s decision. Further, as acknowledged in your query, per prior board decision, aspirations in the context of your query are surgical and cannot be delegated.

E. Consent Agenda Opinions – Answered

1. Do prescription refill requests have to be authorized by a licensed DVM
A licensed veterinarian employed by a clinic offering veterinary services inquired of the board whether, following an initial diagnosis by the attending veterinarian who established the VCPR and examined the patient, the employer (a corporate entity) could authorize refills of the prescription medication after the initial number of refills prescribed and noted in the medial record had expired, without consulting the attending veterinarian. The board found this practice unacceptable and constituting the unauthorized practice of veterinary medicine. The inquiring veterinarian was reminded of the content of the following, applicable rules:

Rule 705.A.1 provides, in pertinent part: “No legend drug...shall be administered, prescribed, dispensed, delivered to or ordered for animals with which the veterinarian has not established a veterinarian-client-patient relationship as a primary care provider...”.

Rule 705 K then provides: “The veterinarian is responsible for and shall maintain accurate medical records when prescribing any drug, medicine, chemical or controlled substance which includes the following:

1. Client's name;
2. Patient's name;
3. date of prescription;
4. name of drug;
5. usage dosage including the route of administration;
6. quantity dispensed and number of refills;
7. name of the veterinarian prescribing the drug, medicine, chemical or controlled substance;

2. How Do Record-keeping Rules Apply to Deceased Patients

A practicing, licensed veterinarian asked whether the rule requiring that medical records be kept for a period of 5 years following the last office visit or service provided to a patient applies following the death of the patient—i.e. is the 5 year period terminated when the patient dies? The board decided that the death of the patient has no bearing on the rule requiring records be kept for 5 years, and in fact the death of a patient is a supporting rationale for requiring records be kept that long.

VII. CONTINUING EDUCATION ISSUES

A. None at this time

Motion made by Dr. Cataldo-Rogers to go into executive session to discuss confidential matters regarding licensees, applicants, and administrative hearings not subject to public disclosure as per the law, seconded by Dr. Findley, and passed unanimously by voice vote.

All votes noted for the following agenda items in executive session were made at the end of discussion and out of executive session.

VIII. ADMINISTRATIVE HEARINGS

A. Case #24-0912.1

A Consent Order was presented by the investigating board member for approval arising from a complaint involving the following circumstances: following a routine spay preceded by an examination and determination the patient was healthy and without evidence of any ongoing pathology, the patient, 2 days later, began convulsing and vomiting. The patient was immediately presented to another facility for emergency care running a temperature and exhibiting signs (loss of serosal detail in the abdomen and dramatic decrease in neutrophils) of septic peritonitis. The patient was euthanized shortly after presentation based on a poor prognosis. The client was emotionally distressed and did not authorize a necropsy but the subsequent attending veterinarian performed a “belly tap” and noted a discharge consistent with his diagnosis. The investigating board member determined the most likely cause of the peritonitis was the failure of the Respondent to meet the regulatory standard of care in performing the spay. The Consent Order imposed a fine of $500, required Respondent to reimburse the board for the costs of investigation ($2000) and required Respondent to obtain additional CE of 3 hours in RACE approved study of septic surgical/spay technique. The board approved the terms of the Consent Order unanimously, with the investigating board member recused from deliberations.

B. Case #24-1130

This case was erroneously added to the February 1st, 2024 agenda and it is instead scheduled for the April 4th, 2024 agenda. No motion made and no further action was taken on this matter.

Motion passed unanimously by voice vote.

X. APPLICANT ISSUES
